Death Angel Claims Spirit of Venerable Lawyer and Patriot

Capt. E. R. Mayo, Famous Citizen and Barrister, Passes Away in Buffalo, Saturday; Life's History Reveals Man of Sterling Worth, Able, Resourceful, Modest.

Captain E. R. Mayo, 88 years of age, famous lawyer and Civil war veteran and one of Smethport's best known and most highly esteemed citizens, died at the Homeopathic hospital in Buffalo, Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, following an illness dating from last May. The direct cause of his demise, however, was pneumonia, which he contracted after submitting to a minor operation in the hospital.

Attorney Guy B. Mayo was with his father when the end came and brought the remains to Smethport Sunday morning. Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock funeral services were conducted from the Mayo home, Rev. W. E. VanDyke of St. Luke's Episcopal church, officiating. The Masonic fraternity, of which the deceased was an active member for many years, had charge of the obsequies. Following the ceremony the remains were laid to rest in the Mayo plat in Rose Hill cemetery.

The deceased lawyer, soldier and citizen is survived by his widow, three sons, and two daughters—Attorney Guy B. Mayo of Smethport; Geoffrey Mayo, recently city engineer of Manilla, P. I., now following his profession in Texas; Major Kenneth Mayo, attorney for the Erie Railroad company, with headquarters in New York; Mrs. Rachel Giroux of Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Cather ne Alderfer of Port Allegany.

Although well known as a lawyer, soldier and substantial fellow citizen throughout practically all of Northern and Western Pennsylvania, Captain Mayo exceeded his later-day acquaintances so far in point of years that knowledge of that which really was an eventful life was somewhat fragmentary. For this reason The Miner submits the following from the pen of Hon. R. B. Stone of Bradford, whose knowledge of Captain Mayo's life comes of a friendship and a friendly intimacy of many years:

By Hon. R. B. Stone.

In a New England town eighty-eight years and ten months ago there was born one of nature's noblemen. Hampden, Maine, was a goodly town in which to lay the foundations of a sterling character. It was the birthplace of Ezekiel Robinson Mayo, son of Simeon and Susan (West) Mayo. The district school supplemented the nurture of a pure home life, and Hampden Academy fitted him for college. He entered Bowdoin and graduated with the class of 1860, having been elected a member of the Phi Beta Kappa society. Among notable classmates was the distinguished Maine statesman, Thomas B. Reed.

Mr. Mayo entered upon the profession of teaching at Portsmouth, New Hampshire. While so engaged the South seceeded, and the country was plunged into Civil War. Vice President Hamlin, a fellow-townsman of Hampden, wrote Mr. Mayo advising him to return home and recruit a battery of light artillery. This he did, enlisting on the eleventh day of December, 1861, and at once entered the service as first lieutenant of the 3rd Maine Independent Battery of Light Artillery. With this command he served to the end of the war, participating in all the battles in which it was engaged. At one time he was detached as engineer in charge of the construction of one of the defensive forts about Washington. Later his battery was sent to the Army of the Potomac, and continued under Grant through the battles of the Wilderness and the Petersburg campaign which finally ended that memorable conflict. Captain Mayo's bravery in action was denoted by his promotion to the captaincy of the battery. He was discharged from the service June 17, 1865.

Returning home he decided to adopt the law as his profession, and entered upon his studies in the office of John A. Peters, afterwards Chief Justice of Maine. Failing health interrupted his continued application to the law, and he left his books and came to Northern Pennsylvania, engaged with his brothers in the lumber business at Cameron. This enterprise suffered from the business panic of 1873, and ire followed failure, destroying the remnant of the company's property.

He thereupon again took up the law and was admitted to practice at Emporium about 1876, and soon

FIRST BAPTIST OPENS REVIVAL SUNDAY NOV. 26

Revival meetings will begin at the First Baptist church, Sunday, November 26, and will continue for three weeks. K. L. Cramer of Pittsburgh, the singing evangelist and preacher, will direct the campaign. Revs. Renicks and Cramer have held a great many meetings throughout Pennsylvania and Ohio in the years gone by. The people of Smethport are lovers of music. Come and hear Cramer. Mr. Renicks has just received a report of Mr. Cramer's meetings from the New Castle News, that closed on Sunday night. Many have been turned away that were not able to gain admittance, and on Friday night 35 asked for prayer.

There will be Union Thanksgiving service in the Baptis church on Sunday evening at 7:30, of all the churches. Let us come together and thank Him who has made and preserved us as a nation, who has given us wisdom in the past to provide free schools, free churches and a free people.

All members and friends are invited to come to the church on Saturday evening about 6 o'clock for a reception and lunch for Evangelist Cramer. Bible school 11:45, and preaching every night at 7:45. All churches and their choirs are invited to come and help. Let us have a great community meeting.

WILL LOWER ALL SPEEDS ON KUSHEQUA MOTOR CAR TO MAKE IT SERVICEABLE

Following a thorough test of the new White motor rail car for the Kushequa railway, last Saturday, conducted in the presence of a number of Smethport citizens, who made the trip from Smethport to Backus, it was determined that several major alterations were necessary ere the car could be accepted for service.

Representatives of the White Motor company who made the test agree that the car in its present shape is not serviceable, mainly for the reason that the gearing throughout is to high. Thus when the car was returned to Kushequa following the test of last Saturday, the White representatives declared their intention of lowering all speeds of the mechanism. This accomplished, which will require a matter of a week or ten days, another test will be made, upon which depends acceptance or rejection of the car.

Local mechanics are of the opinion that it will be an easy matter to make the car negotiate the grades and curves of the Kushequa, and believe that lowering all speeds as suggested, will suffice. From the fact that a precisely similar car is performing good work between Coudersport and Port Allegany, it is reasoned that the Kushequa car also can be made to fulfill all requirements.

In a phone message to The Miner Monday, Mr. Kane expressed himself as disappointed over the test and made request for patience until such time as the alterations proposed have been made.

Despite the car's manifest faults, however, it made the trip to Backus, Saturday, in 30 minutes, running on low gear, and those who participated in the trip declared that it took no time at all to return.

GRIM TRAGEDY AVERTED AT ELDRED WHEN WOMAN OPENS FIRE ON INTRUDER

Marshall Wood, 17, of Olean, narrowly escaped death in Eldred, one night last week, when, following an outing with "the boys," which necessitated his being put to bed, he arose from his couch, wandered into the street, and then, seeking to find his way back, entered the home of a neighbor by mistake.

As the story goes, Wood was in pretty bad shape when his friends tucked him away and consigned him to sleep. Thinking he would come out of it all right by himself, his friends left him. Later on, however, Wood arose and in an hour or so returned to what he supposed was the same house. Instead, he went to the home of Mrs. Florence Rice, King and Bennett streets, occupied by Mrs. Rice, her mother and daughter. Here he found the door locked and proceeded to force the fastenings and enter. The noise aroused the women and, Nina Rice, armed with a revolver, went to investigate the cause of the disturbance.

At the head of the stairs she demanded an explanation from the supposed burglar. Thought the dimly lighted house she could see Wood. He gave no response but started toward the stairway.

As he entered the doorway, Miss Rice fired twice, both bullets entering the wall close to the intruder. The shots failed to halt Wood, and as he came nearer the woman drew back so as to get a better view and aim. Thereupon Miss Rice aimed directly at him. She pressed the trigger three times but the shells failed to explode. Wood had flirted with death. The click of the gun did not halt him, and as he proceeded up the stairs the women shrieked with terror.

As he approached the head of the stairs the women recognized him. They realized that in his sad condition he had made a mistake. Neighbors attracted by the noise of the firing rushed to the scene and took charge of Wood. The dazed young man had entered the house, taken off his shoes and coat, believing he was safely in the house of friends.

An examination revealed that the shells had been in the gun for a long period and were "dead". The fourth shell, however, was in good condition and no doubt would have exploded. Fortunately Miss Rice recognized Wood and managed to retain her composure.

FINEGAN'S SUBSTITUTE TALKS TO PEDAGOGUES AT BRADFORD, TUESDAY.

A large party of Smethport school teachers headed by Prof. and Mrs. Stanley Brigh, were somewhat disappointed when they reached Bradford Tuesday evening and learned that Dr. T. E. Finegan, state superintendent of public instruction, had canceled his speaking date because of illness. In his stead appeared Dr. Orton Lowe, deputy state superintendent of public instruction, who not only dealt with what is known as "the Finegan plan" of instruction, in convincing manner, but in his definition of law, showed where in the school laws of Pennsylvania now in force were made for the purpose of "leveling up" humanity by a proved educational standard. The speaker scored a happy hit when he declared that well-paid teachers insure good schools, and his declaration that comparatively little of the school appropriations of the state were raised from reality values, was supported by argument that carried conviction.

DIES AT COUNTY HOME.

Edward Anderson, aged 66, an inmate of the county home, died at that institution last Sunday, following a paralytic stroke. The aged man was without relatives or intimate friends, and the remains were shipped to the Philadelphia Anatomical Institute.

John Magner, Hermit, Possessed of Forturne Dies in County Home

Eccentric Character of Gifford Hollow Succumbs to Injuries Early Wednesday Morning; Wealth Estimated at $70,000; Friends Seek Relatives in Cental Pennsylvania

John Magner, aged hermit of Gifford Hollow, a man said to be possessed of an estate and other holdings valued approximately at $70,000, died at the County home Wednesday morning at 5 o'clock, as a result of injuries sustained from a fall several weeks ago.

Alone in the world, Mr. Magner entered the County home last Sunday evening, complaining of his hurts and asking for the privilege to remain until such time as he improved, not, however, without offering to pay for services rendered. It was apparent from the beginning, however, that the aged man's condition was critical. Evidently aware that the end was near, he summoned the Rev. Father Donahue, who, following his death, took charge of the remains, gave them into the keeping of Undertaker Sasse and made arrangements for the funeral, which will take place from St. Elizabeth's church Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

Although little is known of the man's relatives, it is said that a number of nephews and nieces are residents of the Central Pennsylvania regions and that efforts are being made to communicate with them.

John Magner, a familiar figure, in this section, was a resident of the Smethport vicinity practically all his life. Although said to be possessed of ample means, his life was so scrupulously economical as to reveal denial of the common comforts. Despite this fault, however, he enjoyed an enviable record for honesty and fair dealing. His word was as good as his bond.

Magner's home was on what is known as the old Tracy farm in Gifford Hollow, an estate of some 120 acres, which was taken over by his father, brother and himself, following the tragic death of Andrew Tracy, the owner. In those days the Magners—father and sons, were known as workers and savers, and it is related that by dint of saving every cent possible and investing in reliable bonds, their combined accumulations soon reached a figure of comfortable proportions. It also is said that the Magners' favorite method of investment was city and borough bonds; that they were known to hold bonds of various boroughs upon which they never drew a cent of interest, nor could borough officials persuade them to draw interest until such time as the bonds had matured and all payments were mandatory.

When the father died many years ago all his holdings reverted to his two sons, among them being bonds issued by Kane borough to the amount of several thousand dollars upon which not one cent of interest ever had been drawn. Later it was hinted that the brothers held Mt. Jewett bonds to a goodly amount and that Mt. Jewett officials could not persuade them to draw interest.

John Magner's brother passed away some fifteen or more years ago, whereupon John succeeded to the estate, ever working hard to keep up the farm. This he was enabled to do by the assistance of neighbors, a custom like unto that of co-operation in the matter of help prevailing in that section. It is related, however, that he seldom if ever employed any help, but always proved willing to do his bit in a co-operative way.

Although he had given practically all his life to farm work, John Magner was a carpenter by trade and a good one. The Sasse building, wherein his remains lie today, was built by him when a young man.

Those who knew him best say he was a man of fair education and kindly disposed, but preferred to live his life in his own way. In early life, however, he shared in all the pleasures of his fellows, dressed well and appeared as normal as any one. The habit of acquirements, plus his exclusiveness and peculiar way of living, were his only faults.

40,000 TROUT ASSIGNED TO STREAMS OF McKEAN BY STATE COMMISSIONER.

The Olds Rod and Gun club of Smethport has received word from the State Game commission of the shipment of some 40,000 two-year-old trout for McKean county streams, 22,000 of which are consigned to the club's care with instructions to release in nearby streams, while 18,000 will be released by I. E. Bailey of Betula, in Haven Brook, West Branch, Potato and Cole Creeks. The first consignment of the trout will be received Wednesday and the second Saturday. Their release will be supervised by Game Commissioner L. K. Hogarth. The trout are reported to be the finest specimens obtainable, full six inches long and of the brown, speckled and rainbow varieties.

ANNEXATION HELD UP.

With the Conopus club awaiting the convenience of the East Smethport Civic Improvement association concerning plans for annexation, a conference set for last week having failed to mature, the whole matter is up in the air. However, efforts are being made to hold the conference this week so that the Conopus club committee may be able to report positively or negatively on the subject at the regular meeting Monday night.

REVIVAL MEET E. SMETHPORT IS PROGRESSING

LOST—By many people, an opportunity to hear Evangelist and Mrs. O. E. Williams on the first night of their special meetings at the East Smethport Union church. There remain, however, nearly two weeks of meetings. Be sure you do not lose any more of this rare privilege.

With this novel method of announcement, Rev. Mr. Pang, pastor of East Smethport and Farmers Valley and Coryville United Brethren churches, extends a hearty invitation to all people of Smethport and vicinity to participate in the evangelistic campaign which started Tuesday evening, November 21, when Rev. and Mrs. O. E. Williams proved themselves evangelists well worthy of the name.

Evangelist Williams, a noted pulpiteer, has already captivated the hearts of all who have heard him, while the singing of Mrs. Williams, supplemented by a well picked choir, has proved both inspirational and impressive.

Every arrangement has been made for the entertainment of record crowds at the Union church during the meetings and, judging from the interest manifested thus far, the campaign will prove a pronounced success.

Congregational singing of the old-time hymns, loved so well by the many, is a feature of the meetings, which will be continued throughout to campaign. Remember you are invited.

SERVES TWO GOOD PURPOSES

Aerial Forest Fire Patrol Not Alone of Value in Saving Timber From Flames.

The aerial forest fire patrol is not only of inestimable value to the timber-growing states of the Pacific coast, but of great value to the United States army, writes Robert W. Ruhl in Leslie's.

If an invading foe ever strikes at the Pacific coast, maps and similar data, direct products of forest fire patrol, will be of inestimable value to Uncle Sam. And if the millennium arrives on schedule time, and wars cease, then with the development of the commercial airplane the value of these data will run into sufficient money to make the expense of the forest fire patrol look like the German mark.

In another direction the aerial forest fire patrol is of material value to Uncle Sam. The great military problem in time of peace is to maintain fighting morale. To an extraordinary degree fighting forest fires calls forth the same qualities required in fighting an armed foe. Locating a forest fire in the wild western country is almost identical with locating an enemy battery; reporting a forest fire to base headquarters by radio is not essentially different from reporting artillery fire; dropping carbon dioxide to extinguish incipient forest fires—a perfected development of the near future—demands the same technical skill as would dropping bombs of TNT on an army ammunition dump.

The aerial forest fire patrol, moreover, provides ideal training for observation squadrons. Liaison with the forest service is accomplished much the same as with the infantry and artillery in war operations.

INDUSTRY CALLS ON SCIENCE

Chemist Today Plays a Highly Important Part in Enterprise of Every Description.

It is said that whenever a car wheel breaks on a certain great trunk line the fragments are taken to the company's laboratory and carefully studied, so that when the next order for car wheels is made up, if structural weakness caused the accident, it may be guarded against. All the purchases by this railroad of iron, steel, oil, lumber or what not are tested by the chemists it employs and they draw up the requirements to which persons who sell the road supplies must conform. This is but an isolated instance. It illustrates the practicality of applied science, and the reliance of acute business men upon the expert opinion that insures them against wasting materials, time and money.

A class graduated from one of our largest technological schools numbered almost two hundred young men and women. Eleven of them took up special studies in this institution or others. All but forty of the rest found employment within a year. They engaged in the service of electric companies, railroads, cotton and paper mills, mines, machine works, iron and steel foundries and others of our most important industrial enterprises.

NEWS OF THE SECTION

and Exchange Clippings

Harrisburg— Col. Henry W. Shoemaker, recently reappointed to the Pennsylvania Forest commission for a four-year term by Governor Sproul, has donated a Norwegian flag to fly on the site of Ole Bull's Castle in Potter county. The Norse flag, which is 6 feet by 10 feet, will be unfurled by the department of forestry on a cliff overlooking a valley where the famous Norwegian violinist attempted to establish his ill-fated colony. For many years an American flag presented annually by Charles King of Genesseo, Pa., has flown above the castle site.

Kane,—Oral Gorton of McKinley was given a thrill while hunting rabbits Thursday, between McKinley and Nansen, when he suddenly encountered a wildcat which was about to spring at him after it had been routed from under a log by Gorton's dog. The only thing that saved the man from a vicious attack was that he was prepared to shoot. The first crack of the gun put the vicious cat down and out. It is an extra large and a fine specimen and will probably weigh between thirty and forty pounds.

Johnsonburg — The Keystone Power Corporation has just forwarded letters to users of electric power, advising them that the price of coal for the month of October delivered to the company's power station, was $5.28 per short ton, and that the advance in the rate for power furnished in December will exceed the schedule rate by 3.6 mills.

Bradford—Bradford police have word that Martin C. Dolan, alias Milford C. Dansbrugh, of Hudson, N. Y., has been arrested in Batavia, N. Y. Dolan has been wanted in this city for some time, for issuing worthless checks—in fact a warrant or his arrest was issued last May, charging him with giving a fraudulent check for $407.50. As the Batavia people get through with Dolan the Bradford authorities will bring charge against him.

Coudersport—People in the vicinity of Cross Fork report that on several occasions lately they have seen a large Albino buck, carrying a large spread of horns and perfect specimen in every way. One man states that he was so near the animal that he could see his red eyes.

Johnsonburg—Elk County branches of the Wild Life league are taking up a pretty big proposition, the purchase and opening of a public park at Mohan Run on the Ridgway-St. Marys state road, at a cost of about $10,000. Members are buying shares at a par value of $10 each, and already some $1,000 has been subscribed. The plans call for the improvement of the grounds by the construction of a large pavilion, a club house, a swimming pool, etc.

Ridgway— Despondent because she could not support her six children by taking in washings and doing house work, Mrs. William Myrtle, a widow, shot and killed herself near here Saturday.

Galeton—By a vote of 128 to 115 the citizens of Galeton decided at the special election held for that purpose in favor of electric street lighting. A company is being formed to erect an electric plant.

St. Marys—Joseph Zorhut, the foreigner arrested in St. Marys last week by state constabulary as a suspect in the Forest county headless murder mystery has been released, the authorities being convinced that Zorhut knows nothing about the murder.

Johnsonburg—Joseph Bauer, 45, died suddenly of heart failure early Monday morning on the steps of his cabin at Kersey, just as he was leaving on a hunting trip. His gun was tightly held in his lifeless hands, and his faithful dog sat beside him. This story was widely circulated all over this section, but later developments indicate Bauer had been struck by an automobile and his body placed where it was later discovered. District Atty. McFarlin is conducting a rigid investigation.

Johnsonburg—W. C. Quigley, 68, who suffered a stroke some two weeks ago, died Friday morning. Thirty and more years ago he was an engineer on the B. R. & P.

Warren—Hon. William E. Rice formerly presiding judge of the 37 judicial district, died shortly after 1 o'clock Friday morning after an illness of one month. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon.

Salamanca—Anthony Stonz, 52, merchant tailor, committed suicide, Sunday, by hanging. His body was found in a garage in the rear of his home. Melancholia is given as the cause.

Coudersport—When the canvassing board of the last election met at the court house to compute the official returns, they found that the election board of the second ward had filed no returns. The Judge of election was willing to take an "oath" that he had filed the same with the clerk of the court. Finally August Gross, janitor of the court house, came with a hammer and screw driver and opened the ballot box. Then the board found the four envelopes containing the official returns. The election board contained one lawyer, one bank cashier and one former school teacher, one wholesale lumber merchant and one jeweler. And, by the way, the lawyer is also an editor and supposed to know the election laws.

Oswayo—Hon. W. W. Crittenden, of Oswayo, who has been seriously ill for the past few months, is slowly improving. On election day he tried to get to the polls to cast his vote, but his condition did not allow him to go even after he had gotten up and dressed.

Bradford—Miss Janet Campbell of Bells Camp, swallowed a two-inch portion of a dental instrument while having a tooth extracted recently, which, following an X-Ray examination, was found lodged in the lower intestine. She is suffering great pain and an operation may be necessary.

WOULD PRESERVE OLD HOUSE

Efforts Being Made to Raise Money to Buy Dwelling Dating From Seventeenth Century.

Some who love good things—and happily interest in the architecture of former ages is awakening more and more—are trying to preserve a remarkable old peasant's dwelling at Harreveld, a lonely hamlet on the heather in the province of Gelderland. It is called los huis, dating from the Seventeenth century and the last house of the Saxon type. Los, in the Geldrian dialect, means open, by which it is indicated that the house consists of one room only and that there are no partitions between the places for housing and sleeping for men and beasts; cows and goats and chickens living peacefully together with the inmates. There is no chimneyplace; the wood fire burns in a hole in the floor, which is of stone, and the smoke is allowed to find an outlet as it pleases.

The peasants, man and wife, who are living here are beset with the extremely modern, yet most unfortunate thought of having a wall built between the stable and the dwelling room, adding a chimney and building another room, by all of which renovations the house will be irretrievably spoiled.

The managing committee of the open-air museum at Arnhem are now trying to get money together in order to buy the house and have it removed to their museum park. It is much to be hoped that they will meet with a prompt success.

ROSARIES FROM HOLY LAND

Important Bethlehem Industry Is the Manufacture of Beads From Material America Sends.

Ten to twenty tons of the pearl-shell waste of American button factories—broken pearls and buttonends of shells—are shipped monthly to the Holy land, where, in the village where Christ was born, the material is converted into beads and ornamental objects. For many centuries the manufacture of such products has been the only important industry of Bethlehem.

There is a market largely in the United States. In 1920 there was shipped from Bethlehem to this country at least $30,000 worth of rosaries, made of mother-of-pearl beads, with silver chains and string on wire of the same metal or "white metal" for a substitute. For making larger carven or other ornamental objects Bethlehem obtains supplies of pearl-oyster shells from the Persian gulf, from India and from Australia. The chains of silver and white metal are imported from France. Hand labor is employed exclusively in the industry, and, inasmuch as it is very cheap, the idea of using machinery is regarded with disfavor.

GOOD FALL FOR FARMERS.

Possibly there never has been in the memory of man a better fall for the housing of crops than this year. In fact, the whole season as been excellent. Not a single crop failure is reported in this section. The farmers are now on their last round, finishing up their year's harvesting in the way of husking corn, which is the best known in years, both in quality and quantity.

Often wonder why the man who boasts that he "owes everything" to his wife doesn't pay her and quit talking about it.

OUR NATIONAL SIN

One reads with deep regret the stories from Michigan that tell of great quantities of fruit left to decay on the ground this fall because of the growers' inability to get it to market. And that regret is made keener by news that similar conditions are in evidence in many parts of Pennsylvania this year, just as they have been during many years of the past. In each state, doubtless in many other states, enormous stocks of perfectly splendid fruit have been lost. Nature was generous in many parts of the country this year and a goodly crop of fruit was produced. It was no small matter when thousands of bushels of apples, peaches, pears and plums and other fruits are lost. Every pound would find a ready sale and could be used for the health and well being of the public if but brought to the market.

During the war when the country was doing far more than usual in conservation of food supplies and prevention of waste, a high Belgian official, on a visit to this country, said American waste had impressed him more than anything else he had seen. What he had seen going to waste was ample to feed a nation if but properly handled, he said. He never had seen anything approaching it in the old world. There are many to agree with him that waste is the great national sin of this country.

The waste of good fruit this year also calls attention to the question of transportation; freight rates, service and all else that is included in transportation. That the present system of transportation is far from ideal is admitted; that it is in need of many adjustments, is proven each time the seasonal movement of commodities is under way. Michigan crops shipped to Milwaukee markets do not bring enough at the wholesale price to pay the freight bill. That has been shown over and over this year. The grower loses his crop, the national sin of waste is committed to the detriment of the consumer waiting and ready for the fruit. The freight situation is not good now, but in former years large amounts of fine food have been wasted within an hour's ride of any large city. One can find that waste in evidence on every dump and in practically every large creek or river on which a city is situated. And waste is particularly bad in those sections remote from markets where roads are in bad condition. There is where the national sin, waste, is given a large illustration.

Greece is in her present plight because of the wars of aggression she has been waging. Encouraged by certain other nations, Greek armies have been in the field for the last two or three years trying to grab territory from the Turks which the latter have held for over 500 years. The attempt met with dismal failure, and now the Greeks want the United States to replenish the stores of food consumed by their armies. Such a request is not going to be received with much enthusiasm in this country. There is no surer way of prolonging the unrest of Europe than by fostering the belief that those nations can waste their substance in war and depend upon the United States to make it good.

September sales of 502 department stores were 11.9 per cent. greater in September of this year than in September, 1921. That means that the purchasing power of the people increased at least that much during the past year. The grateful voters did no hesitate to return to power the party responsible for their improved welfare.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad has placed an order for 8,000 cars to cost about $5,750,000 and to be delivered next spring. The order was given before election, the officials of the road anticipating at least two more years of Republican prosperity.

It begins to look as if Europe and the Near East are suffering from a diet of too much Greece, which doctors aver, is a sure cause of indigestion.

Commercial experts predict the greatest holiday business since 1920. Newspaper advertising will help you get your share of it, Mr. Merchant.

Don't let the cities walk off with the home trade. Show the people that Smethport has as good goods at fair prices as any of them. The way to show them is through the columns of The Miner.

If you haven't time to write that advertisement, let The Miner do it for you. We are experts in that line.

Some auto drivers toot their horns at a railroad crossing as a warning for all trains to get out of the way.

The way to keep the trade at home is to advertise. Miner advertising brings results.

TRAVELERS ENJOY TALKS ON PIONEER WOMAN AND THE NEAR EAST PROBLEM

At the regular meeting of the Travelers club, held at the Club house, November 18, a paper entitled, "The Pioneer and the Twentieth Century Woman," which had been written by Mrs. W. F. Specht, was read by Mrs. F. A. McCoy. A great contrast between the woman of today and that of ye olden time was most interestingly drawn and the aim and ideals of the modern woman depicted.

Miss Bosworth, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Rubin, entertained the club with two vocal solos—"My Rosary for You" and "Just One Kiss."

In lieu of the paper assigned to Mrs. H. J. Ellsworth: "The Power of the Near East in History Today," Rev. W. E. VanDyke spoke at length on the present situation in the Near East and the various proposed solutions of the problem. He confessed himself at sea as to the real remedy for Armenia's troubles, although as a clergyman he had about 30 years' experience in contributing to the never ending Near East relief. In his opinion relieving the widows and orphans is of little or no avail as a remedy, since nothing final is done to bring about the cessation of conditions that keep on making more widows and orphans. He expressed his confidence that the president, the secretary of state, our senators and representatives, if any solution is possible, will make every effort to attain it, without the written request of all club members and church people. Mr. VanDyke was emphatic in expressing his sincere and earnest hope that the Turk shall some day be obliged to retire from the map of Europe.

The Travelers Club Sextette sang two numbers in their own harmonious manner, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ruth Walker.

VISITING RECTOR TELLS OF FORWARD MOVEMENT EPISCOPALIAN CHURCH

Rev. V. T. Kemerer of New York spoke both morning and evening at St. Luke's Episcopal church last Sunday on the forward movement of the church. He explained in detail the system by which the program for three years' work has been planned, the proportion in which the funds are divided between home and foreign missions and the amount of care taken to insure that the various causes supported are worthy. Rev. Kemerer addressed the members of the Guild of the church Monday p. m.

WATER SUPPLY PURE.

A report from the State department of health concerning the purity of Smethport's water supply, was received Tuesday by Dr. W. A. Ostrander, who states that the water was pronounced good in every way. Immediately following reception of the report, Dr. Ostrander shipped another consignment of samples for analysis in conformity with the custom to submit samples every two weeks.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL.

The venerable S. J. McKendrick, who has been a patient at the Buffalo hospital for the past several weeks, where he underwent an operation, returned to his home in Smethport, Wednesday evening, so well improved that hopes of his complete recovery are now entertained. Mr. L. E. Munn accompanied Mr. McKendrick home.

BISHOP OVERS COMING.

Rt. Rev. W. H. Overs, Bishop of Liberia, will speak in St. Luke's church, morning and evening, Sunday. While no announcement of his subject has been made, it is believed that his address will have to do with his work in Africa. Bishop Overs is well known in Smethport, having visited here many times.

Mrs. Edward Jifkins of Bradford is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo Mitchell.

BILL SAM'S DICTIONARY

By J. L. MARTIN.

Bud Thompson, who has always considered himself a real wit, has been acting strangely ever since the circus came to Tutehill last fall. Bud's neighbors say that he makes his old hounds sit in a row while he walks on his hands and tells them funny stories. It cropped out last week that Bud is taking a correspondence course in "How to Be a Clown."

LATE EVENTS

Michael J. Fitzgerald, former burgess of Kane, died suddenly at his home in Cincinnati, O., Wednesday morning.

The lower grades of Port Allegany schools were dismissed Monday afternoon to permit the pupils to attend the funeral of their former teacher, Mrs. Jennie Reed, who died Friday.

Under the influence of "blue ruin," Louis Lombardo of Bradford, armed with a gun, got into an altercation with a friend. The friend disarmed Louis, gave him an old fashioned hug and supplemented the action by deliberately biting off Louis's nose. Doctors summoned to the rescue sewed the nose on again.

Dr. Louis D. Joseph, 43, Bradford, was accidently killed Wednesday morning while cleaning a revolver at his home. He was preparing for a hunting trip, when his Colt 45, purchased recently, was discharged, causing death instantly. Following the discharge members of the family found him on the floor of the bath room dead.

Elmer Lee Godfrey, 33, a native of Farmers Valley, later a resident of Olean, was shot and killed by mistake when he sought to enter the room of Matthew L. Dodd, a companion, in New York City. Dodd had mistaken Godfrey for another roomer with whom he had quarrelled. When Dodd realized what he had done, he turned the gun upon himself, firing a bullet through his brain. Godfrey was a son of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Godfrey, formerly of Farmers Valley.

ELDRED'S CRACK TEAM BATTLES LOCAL ELEVEN KANE FIELD, SATURDAY

The Eldred eleven meets Smethport, High in battle array on Kane field Saturday afternoon, and for the reason that Eldred has not been defeated to date, the local boys predict that the game will be the hardest of the season, save one, that with Kane. Metzgar is expected to be in the game again, Saturday, which fact encourages the locals to believe tha they can make Eldred taste her first defeat.

RECORD LICENSE YEAR

Since January 1, 1922, the treasurer's office has issued 5,157 hunters' licenses, with applications continuing at the rate of 25 and 30 a day. This beats the record, according to Treasurer McCann, whose figures for last year, a record for that time, reveal a total of 5,059 licenses. Thirty licenses were issued Wednesday.

December 1 is the date set for the issuance of dog licenses for 1923.

NOTICE.

All property owners in the Borough are requested to trim their shade trees from the ground up to a height that will permit the free carrying of umbrellas on rainy days and on Main street the trees should be trimmed up to the height of the ornamental lights. This will make the lights more efficient, look much nicer and it will improve the trees and the lawns underneath. The is the time to trim trees, and if you will do it at once the Borough will carry away the trimmings free of charge.

MANY TUBERCULOSIS CAUSES

Department of Agriculture Receives Various Replies on Methods of Spreading Disease.

(Prepared by the United States department of Agriculture.)

What is the most common method of spreading bovine tuberculosis in your community? This question asked by the United States Department of Agriculture in the interest of establishing accredited tuberculosis-free herds brought many answers ascribing the spread of this disease to about a dozen causes.

In North Dakota, where range conditions are typical of those in many other States of the northwest, unrestricted roaming of cattle was given as a common cause. Drinking at the same pond was another. The introduction of the disease was laid to cattle not properly tested, being shipped into the state.

In parts where the pastures are fenced, the complaint was that the disease is spread by cattle nosing each other at fence lines. One breeder advocated a double line of fence to prevent this means of contact. In this state, where purebred cattle are generally tested before being sold but grade cattle are not, much of the spread of the disease is laid to infected grade stock. Close housing in poorly ventilated buildings was given as a cause of disease by a few breeders. Some from observation and experience, laid the spread of the disease to feeding calves and pigs milk from tuberculous animals. From one source came the claim that it was spread from dead animals by dogs and hogs running at large and feeding upon the carcasses.

From Oklahoma came fewer reasons, but of the same type: Common pasture, importation of untested animals from other states and the sale, locally of untested animals, foul stables, and contact with infected cattle in adjoining fields by breachy stock crawling through fences or stock nosing at fence lines.

Among the chief causes given in New England were the low price at which suspected animals are sold, the lack of testing hogs and grade cattle to be sure they, as well as purebred animals, are free from disease when sold, the breeding to a common bull, serving cows outside the herd, the common drinking trough, milk from diseased animals fed to calves and hogs, unsanitary barns, drafty barns, underfeeding, the common pasture or pasturing boarder animals, and nosing at and breaking through fence lines by cattle, some of which may be diseased.

The 12 causes of the spread of the disease reported generally were:

1. Unrestricted range or common pasture.
2. Common drinking pool or trough.
3. Introduction of untested cattle.
4. Nosing at fence lines.
5. Close foul housing.
6. Milk of infected animals fed to calves and hogs.
7. Trading of untested animals.
8. Dead animals eaten by dogs and hogs.
9. Breachy stock.
10. Breeding to a common bull.
11. Serving cows outside the herd.
12. Conditions unfavorable to health, as drafty barns and underfeeding.

PRODUCTION OF CLEAN MILK

Chief Causes of Bacteria Are Found in Unsanitary Conditions and Bad Management.

Health authorities agree that the way to get pure milk is to produce it pure rather than to try to purify it afterwards. The chief causes of bacteria in milk are found to be in the unsanitary conditions under which it is produced. These causes are: Dirty stables, dirty cows, careless, slovenly habits, improper handling, and insufficient cleaning of utensils.

Contamination of Milk.

The milk of one diseased cow mixed with the milk from the balance of the herd will contaminate the whole lot, making it unfit for either human or calf food.

Scrub Stock Is Expensive.

Use a pure-bred sire if there is one in the neighborhood. Scrub stock costs much and returns little. Sell or eat the scrubs.

Watch Condition of Calf.

Watch the condition of the calf's bowels. At the first appearance of scouring or offensive odor, reduce the feed and treat for scours.

Feed Roughage Liberally.

Feed a cow all the roughage she will eat.

BIG WHITE BEAR SEEN IN WOODS NEAR KANE.

A large white bear with pink eyes, is wandering around the woods in the vicinity of Highland, about eight or nine miles from Kane. This is the solemn statement of George T. Green a Pittsburgh hunter, who claims to have seen the animal. He admitts that he was so frightened by the sight of the beast, that he did not fire a shot at it.

Old hunters in this vicinity when asked about the tale told by the Pittsburgh man say that it is possible that he may have seen a white bear, as the albino type is found in all animals, and although none of them has ever encountered a white bear in this section of the country they give considerable credence to the man's story.

Mr. Green believes that the bear knew that a man was near and the fact that it did not take a fright and run away almost convinced him that the animal was partially tame. Another theory is that it is a polar bear that has escaped from some menagerie.—Kane Republican.

Death Angel Claims

afterwards opened an office at Eldred, having been admitted to the bar in McKean County April 26, 1878. He conducted a remunerative practice at Eldred until the spring of 1888. In April of that year he opened an office at Smethport, and the removal of his family to this borough followed in November. His son, Guy D. Mayo, upon admission to practice, became his law partner, and the firm of E. R. Mayo and Son thereafter to the day of his death continued in active practice. He died in the Homeopathic hospital in Buffalo on Saturday last, the 18th day of the present month.

Captain Mayo was married on the 22nd day of November, 1871, to Emily Rebecca Brown. Of this union there were born eight children, of whom five survive: Guy Bennett Mayo, Robinson Brown Mayo, deceased; Max Simons Mayo, deceased; Ruth Mayo, deceased; Sir Percy Wilkinson Mayo, now a C.M.G. of the Fort Worth, in the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads; Richard Rogers Mayo, Quebec, a banker in Dawson, Y. T., Alaska Ogden Kendrick Mayo, lawyer, now in the legal and tax department of the Erie Railroad Company in New York City, and Katherine (Mayo) Aiderfer, of Port Allegany.

Captain Mayo, as he was familiarly known to the people of McKean and neighboring counties, was a lawyer whose ability and integrity were well attested by the growth of his professional engagements. As a citizen he was independent, fearless and intensely patriotic. He loved the country he had fought for. He was a friend of the public schools, serving willingly as a district director for successive years, and ardent supporter of the temperance cause, a Progressive Republican. When he recognized a principle, he adhered to it at whatever sacrifice. He declined to gain political preferment by compromise. His instincts and impulses seemed unerring. He had persuasive and compelling power as a public speaker, but he never face his voice to an unworthy cause. He did not gain great worldly riches. Above all he rated his home. His jewels were his sons and daughters. He was not a member of any church. He lived his days without reproach, exemplary in domestic life, conscientiously faithful to public duty. He had qualities for high public service if the door of opportunity had opened. What he might have been to the commonwealth he was to the community.

14 MILES UNIMPROVED ROADWAY BETWEEN KANE AND GREATER NEW YORK

Following the opening of the new stretch of improved highway between Eldred and the New York state line, which is expected to occur about December 1, it will be possible to motor from Kane to New York city via Olean and only encounter 14 miles of dirt road over the entire route. The longest stretch of unimproved highway on the route is the eight miles between Mt. Jewett and Kassen; four miles from Farmers Valley and Larabee is unimproved and two miles from to N. Y. State line into Portville.

The improving of the Kassen-Mt. WELL KNOWN ELGIN MAN MEETS DEATH ON TRACK

Patrick J. McGrath of Elgin, met a horrible death within a few yard of his home Wednesday night when he was run down by a passenger train. There were no eye witnesses to the tragedy, and it is presumed that McGrath was killed while walking along the track. His body was horribly mangled. Mr. McGrath had lived at Elgin a long time and in his early manhood was employed as engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, running between Kane and Erie. During the past 30 years he had been engaged in selling produce, raised on his own farm near Elgin. He is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Traffic over the full length of the Smethport-Bradford road was resumed Tuesday afternoon when the contractors, realizing that completion of the work was impossible during the winter season, suspended operations after putting the uncompleted portion in passable condition. DAIRY FACTS

PRACTICE OF PASTEURIZING

Dealers Know That Milk So Treated Keeps Better and Prevents Spread of Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The practice of pasteurizing milk is growing rapidly in the cities of this country, as shown by figures collected by the United States Department of Agriculture. Through pressure of health departments and through voluntary action by milk dealers plant after plant has been switched over from raw milk. It is now generally recognized by those who have studied the problems of milk supply, that proper pasteurization does not injure the chemical or nutritive properties of milk, and that it does destroy all bacteria that may produce disease. Milk dealers know that milk so treated keeps better and satisfies customers, and that it prevents outbreaks of disease which might cast discredit on their product and injure their business.

With these facts in mind it is easy to see why the practice has grown. In 1915 only 77.8 per cent of the cities with population of more than 500,000 reported more than half of their milk pasteurized, while in 1921 every city in this class had a milk supply more than 50 per cent of which was pasteurized. In 1915 more than 10 per cent of the cities of 75,000 to 100,000 people had no pasteurized milk, but during the past year all of them had some part of the supply pasteurized.

The increase in pasteurization in small cities is particularly striking. Take, for example, those from 10,000 to 25,000 population. In 1915 about 40 per cent had pasteurized milk, but in 1921 nearly 91 per cent had it. Even in cities below 10,000 population, pasteurization is becoming more common.

KEEP CREAM DURING SUMMER

If Cooled to 50 Degrees Promptly After Separating It Will Keep Several Days.

The dairyman must figure a way to keep the cream in good condition during the hot weather months. There is always someone saying "cream can't be kept sweet very long during the summer months," but it has been proven that cream cooled to 50 degrees shortly after separating can be kept sweet for several days.

To accomplish this, it is necessary to have a cooling tank. Such tanks may be bought from the dairy supply houses, but if only a small quantity of cream is produced a homemade tank will do the trick. This tank is made as follows:

Take a water barrel and around it make a box about 3 feet square by about the height of the barrel, insert a pipe leading from the pump into the barrel extending to the bottom. An overflow pipe is then placed on the opposite side of the barrel leading to the outside of the box. This overflow pipe should be placed as high as the neck of a large cream can. The intake pipe from the pump should extend to the bottom of the barrel as the warm water then rises and overflows.

The space between the box and the barrel is filled with sawdust or other insulator and the box finally covered to the edge of the barrel. A close fitting lid is then placed over the top of the barrel and completes the tank. When a partly filled can is set down a stick across the barrel above the can will help to hold it down.—A Miller, in the Farm and Home.
